PUBLIC AFFAIRS OFFICE

George Lauder is on leave until 5 September.

Media Relations

At his request, Cord Meyer was briefed on background by NIO Fritz Ermarth on the current state of the Soviet economy, leadership, morale, and related issues. Fritz was excellent and Cord was pleased. It led to his 24 September column in the Washington Times and elsewhere.

25X1 Retirees Dick Helms and [] independently reported contacts by BBC, asking in each case for their cooperation in a show BBC is producing on Yuri Nosenko. Each declined to cooperate and no other details are known to us yet.

25X1 At the DDCI's urging, we complained to the Christian Science Monitor about an editorial on Honduras in which unnamed sources alleged CIA was involved with right-wing military sources responsible for killing civilians. The Monitor agreed to print our denial in a retraction.

We declined an invitation from Delta Sigma Chi, the society of professional journalists, to discuss "where journalists should draw the line" in covering intelligence and to debate the merits of joint Congressional oversight. We deferred to AFIO.

25X1

Reuters this week announced the publication of a new book which alleges that CIA regularly briefs the Pope. The Vatican promptly published a denial. In response to several queries we pronounced the story too absurd to merit CIA comment.

Presentations

25X1 In addition to internal lectures to EODs and the Introduction to CIA course, this week we briefed []. We also briefed
25X1 a Naval War College staffer who conducts a national security block of instruction,
